

- For Wednesday, December 2, 2020 you are going to be reading the next two chapters of The Plague - Chapters 23 and 24.
- Continue filling out your dialectic log (example still in the powerpoint under resources “Plague Context and Assignments”) - the whole assignment will be due when we finish the book
- Chapter leader will work on their analysis and upload it to the link that is already on Archie
 - Chapter 23 → Luciana
 - Chapter 24 → Jaime
- In the copy of the book I have, that would be pages 234-257.
- If you’re using any other version, I’ll give you the first and last lines of each chapter:

Chapter 23:

Starts with → “All Souls’ Day that year was very different from what it had been in former years.”

Ends with → “One would like to do something to help him. But how can you help a judge?”

Chapter 24:

Starts with → “There were other camps of much the same kind in the town, but the narrator, for lack of firsthand information and in deference to veracity, has nothing to add about them.”

Ends with → “When they caught sight of the plague watchman, Rieux guessed that Tarrou, like himself, was thinking that the disease had given them a respite, and this was good, but now they must set their shoulders to the wheel again.”
