

Name:

Series, Places & Dates, Interjection and Adjectives

1. Write an original sentence that uses commas in a series — including the Oxford comma.

2. Pretend you are hosting an event here in Miami. Create a sentence introducing the event, including the location and date, with attention to proper comma placement.

3. Create one sentence that begins with an interjection, one that has an interjection in the middle, and one with interjections both in the beginning and the middle of the sentence. (That's three sentences total.)

4. Using commas, rather than conjunctions, create two sentences in which you use two adjectives to describe a person or object.

5. Correct the following sentence: Patriotic Americans praised Chuck Norris for his love of the Red, White and Blue when he attended the Academy Awards wearing an American Flag patterned tuxedo and, flying on a bald eagle.
