

Unit 0 - Classwork 2

1. According to Ancient Greek philosophers such as Plato, the Academic Platonists, and the Stoics, what are the three parts of Ancient Greek philosophy?
 - _____
 - _____
 - _____
2. According to the biographer Diogenes Laertius, which one of the three parts of Ancient Greek philosophy began with Thales of Miletus?
3. According to the biographer Diogenes Laertius, which one of the three parts of Ancient Greek philosophy began with Zeno of Elea?
4. According to the biographer Diogenes Laertius, which one of the three parts of Ancient Greek philosophy began with Socrates?
5. According to the biographer Diogenes Laertius, which one of the three parts of Ancient Greek philosophy ended with Archelaus?
6. What was the relationship between Socrates and Archelaus?

7. According to Aristotle (and the Peripatetics), what were the three parts of philosophy?

- _____
- _____
- _____

8. According to Aristotle (and the Peripatetics), one of the three parts of philosophy was called “first philosophy”, and another one of the three parts was called “second philosophy”, but which part of philosophy was natural philosophy? From the four logical possibilities below, circle or highlight the correct answer.

- first philosophy
- second philosophy
- both first philosophy and second philosophy
- neither first philosophy nor second philosophy

9. What are the three main branches of modern philosophy?

- _____
- _____
- _____

10. For as long as philosophy has had three main branches (or parts), which one of the three branches (or parts) has always been one of the three branches (or parts) of philosophy?