

After learning about horror and terror and the sublime, I want you to make up your own example.

In the spirit of the season, write a short story (1-2 pages) that employs all three concepts.

To be shared on Thursday, October 31.

To receive full credit, you will identify the moments of horror/terror/sublime on the document (highlight, underline, note on the bottom) and then share it with the class.